Holy Saturday Divine Liturgy

Let All Mortal Flesh

(to be sung in place of the Cherubic Hymn)

Text Source: Based on Divine Prayers and Services
Seraphim Nassar 1961

Dmitri Bortniansky (1751 - 1825)
Cherubic Hymn #5
Text Adaptation by Michael G. Farrow

\[ \text{Soprano} \quad \text{Alto} \quad \text{Tenor} \quad \text{Bass} \]

\[ \text{\( \frac{4}{4} \)} \quad \text{\( \frac{4}{4} \)} \quad \text{\( \frac{4}{4} \)} \quad \text{\( \frac{4}{4} \)} \]

\[ pp \quad \text{A - men.} \quad \text{Let all mortal flesh keep si - lent and in fear and trembling stand pondering} \]

\[ \text{rit.} \quad \text{no earthly thoughts.} \quad \text{p For the King of Kings and the} \]

\[ \text{Lord of Lords com - eth forth to the faith -} \]

Antiochian Orthodox Christian Archdiocese 04/07/03 Rev. 0 MK
Let All Mortal Flesh
Dmitri Bortniansky

- ful com - eth forth to the faith - pp ful.

Last time

A - men. A - men. Be - fore him go the ranks of an - gels with all the prin - ci - pal - i - ties, prin - ci - pal - i - ties and pow'rs, the man - y eyed

Let All Mortal Flesh
Dmitri Bortniansky

cherubim and the six-winged seraphim, cov'ring their faces and chanting their hymn: Alleluia, alleluia, alleluia, alleluia.