1) O all-laud ed Eu-plos, ev-'ry wile of thē ē-vil-mind-ed en-e-my didsthou bravo-ly o-ver-turn in thy most stead-fast fight;

hav-ing o-ver-come him, thou art con-se-crat-ed now a pure and most ac-cept-a-ble sac-rifi-cé to Christ the Fashion-er, e-ven He that is the King of all, and with Whom thou dost re-joice e-ter-nal-ly.

2) O all-laud-ed Eu-plos, fenced a-bout in the sens-es of thy soul with thē in-vin-ci-ble Cross of Christ, thou staunch-ly went-est forth of thine own vo-li-tion to op-pose thine ene-my;

and having triumphed over him in the sight of all, thou reignest now with the Sovereign King of all that is, and rejoicest with Him through eternity.

3) O all lauded Euplos, having Christ as thy helper, thou didst scorn all things material and for Him didst give thy body up to the persecutor unto scourgings and to pains, resisting unto blood in thy striving, O Great Martyr; for which cause hath the Master, Savior, Lord, and God now adorned thee with the crown of victory.
