1) Being illumined in soul with the beams of heavenly grace, in this world thou didst break forth as a light, O Quadratos, shining on all men with the luminous rays of thy preaching inspired by God; and for this cause we the faithful now honor thee as a Martyr and Apostle of Christ.

2) Walking the paths that are straight, thou didst rescue erring men from the perverse and crooked ways of impious error. Wherefore, we the faithful now glorify thee, O Apostle most glorious, as an unerring and true guide and as a means whereby we may be brought near to God.

3) The Lord our God, Who is mighty and wondrous in His Saints, in the world glorified thee with the bounteous glory of His gifts of grace, O Apostle of Christ, famed Quadratos, in giving thee as a physician of body and soul to them that with hymns acclaim thee piously.
